

PRIVACY POLICY

Your privacy is important to us, and we are committed to protecting the personal information you choose to share with us. We have adopted the following privacy policy for the collection and use of all information regarding Users and Subscribers, and their activities and interactions with the www.diplomaticcourier.org.

Information We May Gather

The Diplomatic Courier is the sole owner of the information collected on this site. We do not sell, share, or rent this information to others in ways different from what is disclosed in this statement. The Diplomatic Courier may obtain the following types of non-personally identifiable information from users and subscribers:

Site Usage Data

We collect non-identifiable information to measure how our Users and Subscribers use our Web site. This information may include statistics about the numbers and timing of unique visits to the site, repeat visits, and which pages are viewed.

IP Address Data

We may use IP addresses to analyze trends, administer the site, track users' movement, and gather broad demographic information for aggregate use. IP addresses are not linked to personally identifiable information.

Spyware or Adware

These terms refer to applications that are downloaded to your computer. These types of applications deliver ads (usually in the form of pop-up type ads) based on your Web usage. We do not participate in any way with spyware or adware applications, and we do not download these types (or any types) of applications. Cookies and .swf files are not spyware or adware, and they are not harmful to your computer.

Sign Up and Subscribe Features

If a user wishes to subscribe to the Diplomatic Courier, we ask for contact information such as name, email address, mailing address, and financial information. The Diplomatic Courier may ask for additional information, such as content preferences. This information is used to contact the user/subscriber about the content for which they have expressed an interest. PayPal, the financial institution working with the Diplomatic Courier will ask for financial information.

Tell-a-Friend Feature

If a user elects to use our referral service for informing a friend about our site or specific articles, we ask them for the friend's name and email address. The Diplomatic Courier will automatically send the friend a one-time email inviting them to visit the site or an email with the specific page or article. The Diplomatic Courier will store this information for the sole purpose of sending this one-time email. The friend may contact the Diplomatic Courier at info@diplomaticcourier.org to request the removal of this information from the database at any time.

Links

The Diplomatic Courier Web site contains links to other sites. Please be aware that we are not responsible for the privacy practices of other sites. We encourage our users to be aware when they leave our site to read the privacy statements of each and every Web site that collects personally identifiable information. This privacy statement applies solely to information collected by this Web site.

Correction/Updating Personal Information

If a user's personally identifiable information changes (such as your zip code or email address), or if a user no longer desires to subscribe to the Diplomatic Courier or any of our services, the Diplomatic Courier will endeavor to provide a way to correct, update or remove that user's personal data provided to us. This can usually be done by emailing our staff at info@diplomaticcourier.org.

Choice/Opt-out

Users who no longer wish to receive the Diplomatic Courier or who no longer wish to be on the Diplomatic Courier email list may opt-out of receiving these communications by replying with "unsubscribe" in the subject line of the email, or by emailing us at: info@diplomaticcourier.org with "unsubscribe" in the subject line.

Notification of Changes

If the Diplomatic Courier decides to change our privacy policy, we will post those changes to this page so our users are always aware of what information we collect and how we use it. If at any point we decide to use personally identifiable information in a manner different from that stated at the time it was collected, we will notify users by way of an email. Users will have a choice as to whether or not we use their information in this different manner. We will use information in accordance with the privacy policy under which the information was collected.

If you feel that the Diplomatic Courier is not abiding by its posted privacy policy, you should contact: Webmaster at: info@diplomaticcourier.org

Revised October 2007